Varadian's departure would leave vacant seat

By Dave Gosnell
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — A vacancy on the City Council will occur if 5th Ward Alderman Jake Varadian moves out of the city, as he is considering.

Varadian, a teacher at Prather elementary school, said there is a good possibility he may buy a house near Edwardsville.

"It's possible, but nothing is definite yet," Varadian said.

"As soon as I move, I'll have to resign," from the council Varadian said. He said he has not closed on the house yet but expects to know for sure about his plans by the end of next week. Varadian did not say when he would move if he bought the house.

Should Varadian move, Mayor Von Dee Cruse said he welcomes suggestions on who to appoint to Varadian's seat. He said he wanted somebody who knows the 5th Ward and can make a contribution to city government.

"Alderman Bailey and I are going to work together on this," Cruse said, referring to the other alderman in the ward, Lloyd Bailey.

Cruse said he has discussed Varadian's plans with Varadian and that it is Cruse's understanding that Varadian has decided to move.

Jake Varadian

Varadian serves as chairman of the council's Finance Committee and was instrumental in preparing and obtaining passage of the city's budget this year.

Varadian, 48, has lived in Granite City his entire life. He grew up on and now lives on Olive Street.

He was first elected alderman in 1981 and was re-elected in 1985. His term ends in 1989.

Varadian said he would continue teaching at Prather if he moved.

Property taxes collected by treasurer's office

By Dave Gosnell
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — The city treasurer's office has collected $2,105,027 in property taxes. The deadline for tax collections by Granite City was Aug. 31.

The figure does not approach the grand total of property taxes that will be collected for taxing bodies. It is mainly taxes collected from small property owners, said Gail Valle, deputy treasurer.

The first installment of tax payments was due Sept. 14.

The county treasurer's office will collect the majority of taxes, mostly from corporate property owners and second installments due Nov. 16 from small property owners.

The city collected about $1,100,000 more this year than it did last year for distribution to the various taxing bodies.

Partney declines to take Fifth

By Jack C. Ventimiglia
Executive editor

GRANITE CITY — Fourth Ward Alderman Dan Partney and two police officers declined Thursday to take the Fifth and to answer questions before the Madison County grand jury. State's Attorney Dick Allen said Friday.

Allen said the three men were brought before Associate Judge Charles Roman Jr., who told them they could take the Fifth, answer questions or go to jail. Assistant State's Attorney Rick Rybak will continue to argue the state's case when the grand jury meets again Oct. 22.

A former member of the Fire and Police Commission, Bob Partney said Friday he understood Partney didn't want to take the Fifth. Partney wanted to avoid repetition and instead offered to stand behind answers already given to the Division of Criminal Investigation of the Illinois State Police, Barton said. Partney declined comment Friday, but has stated he was not involved in cheating.

Barton, called to testify Thursday, said he expects indictments.

"I would think they probably will (indict)," Barton said. "There's so many unanswered questions. I don't think they should indict, but it's so political."

Barton and Partney have stated the police test investigation was started to discredit Partney, who was considered a possible mayoral contender in 1989 against Mayor Von Dee Cruse.

DCI's investigation sought to determine how Reader and Rosenberg scored first and second out of more than 500 officers who took a nationally distributed police test. Prior to being administered in July 1985, the test was mailed to Partney, who was then chairman of the Fire and Police Commission. After the test, Reader and Rosenberg were promoted to sergeant.

Those testifying included Joe Williams, a former Fire and Police Commission member; Dan Partney's former wife, Beverly; their son, Dan Jr., 14; and Beverly Partney's friend, Pontoon Beach Patrolman Michael Crouch.

Dan Partney is represented by attorney Leon Scroggins. Reader and Rosenberg are represented by attorney Irv Slate Jr.

Madison County's grand jury consists of 23 persons, including six persons from Granite City. The grand jury is empowered to determine whether evidence indicates a crime was committed.

If the grand jury determines evidence indicates a crime, it issues a formal charge called an indictment. The indictment is proven or disproven during a trial. A grand jury can make charges, but cannot determine guilt.

$586,000 school tax levy in Venice

By Valerie Evenden
Staff writer

VENICE — An annual tax levy of $586,000 was outlined by the Board of Education Thursday night.

Final adoption will take place after a public hearing on the aggregate levy. The hearing was set for 7 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 18, at the board office.

Depending on what happens to the assessed valuation this year and how the tax rate is determined by the county clerk, the tax rate next year could increase by 16 cents per $100 assessed valuation," said Superintendent of Schools Robert Vickers.

He estimated next year's rate at $4.2873 on each $100 assessed valuation. The Venice school tax rate this year is $4.12.

"This year's rate is the second highest in Madison County," Vickers said. The levy in 1986 was $571,000 or $15,000 less than the proposed new levy.

The rate for 1988 collection of 1987 taxes will be determined next spring when the levy is applied to the new assessment total.

Estimated amounts to be raised by real estate taxation in the Venice area are:

Educational, $420,000 ($425,000); down $5,000; operations, building and maintenance, $60,000 (same); transportation, $24,000 ($24,000); up $5,000; working cash fund, $7,000 (same); Illinois Municipal Retirement Fund, $17,000 ($20,000); down $3,000; fire prevention, safety and environment, $10,000 (same).

tal and energy conservation, $1,000 (same); tort immunity (liability insurance), $14,000 ($12,000); up $2,000; special education, $6,500 ($6,500); up $500; and workers' compensation, $3,500 ($3,000); up $500.

This year, a new levy is allowed for Social Security, with an estimated $21,000 for this purpose listed in the aggregate levy.

Estimated expenditures of $2,226,581 for the Venice public schools in 1987-88 are about 10 1/2 percent more than last year's $2,009,535 budget.

The board adopted the new budget in September, along with a $66,079 budget for Venice-Lincoln Technical Center.

Funds to operate the adult vocational and education center are provided by state and federal agencies and not directly by Venice taxpayers.

Dispatchers settle with city on salaries

By Dave Gosnell
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — A negotiated agreement will give city police dispatchers at least a $3,000 salary increase this year.

The City Council accepted on Tuesday terms of an agreement negotiated between the council's Negotiations Committee and the city's white collar union.

The dispatchers, who are now paid $11,000 a year, filed a grievance with the city claiming that the city failed to follow through on promised salary negotiations after all other white collar workers agreed to a contract.

"It was valid," said 3rd Ward Alderman Brett Hanke, chairman of the Negotiations Committee.

man of the Negotiations Committee, of the grievance. "In order to get the agreement signed, the dispatchers had to be left hanging."

Hanke said the dispatchers were promised, with a written agreement, that an agreement would be negotiated by the beginning of this year but it was not.

Under the agreement, probationary dispatchers will be paid $14,000 a year and, after one year of service, will be paid $16,000 per year.

The city also will give a $150 clothing allowance.

Red Cross always on call

Fourth of a series
GRANITE CITY — The American Red Cross is always on call. Twenty-four hours a day, Red Cross members are there to improve the quality of human life, enhance self-reliance and concern for others and to help people avoid, prepare for and cope with emergencies. The Tri-City Chapter of the American Red Cross are providing these services to Quad-City Area residents.

One main service provided by the Red Cross is to military families, said Norma Petty, executive director of the local agency. The Red Cross contacts servicemen during times of emergencies in their family, she said.

The agency provides emergency shelter, food and clothing to victims of disasters such as tornadoes or earthquakes, Petty said. They also try to get information for persons concerned with the welfare of family members caught in a disaster, Petty said.

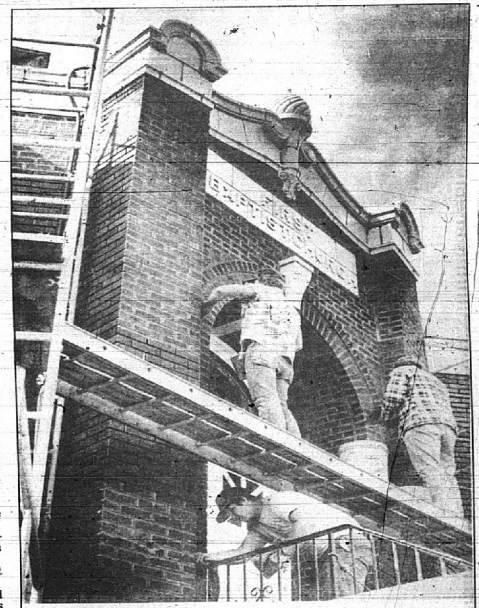

The Red Cross also gives emergency aid to families whose homes are damaged by fire, Petty said. Last year, $10,000 was spent locally on aiding families who were burned out of their homes, she said.

One well known project of the Red Cross is its blood drives. Petty said the local agency averages between 34 and 36 drives a year.

"Blood is always in constant demand," she said.

Due to the AIDS scare, blood donating has been down, but beginning to increase, she said. Some people believe they can get AIDS from giving blood, but it's not true, Petty said.

Mayor Echols to discuss role of township

VENICE — Mayor Tyrone Echols will conduct a public meeting to discuss "the future of the City of Venice in Venice Township" at 6 p.m. Monday at the Venice Senior Citizens Community Center, Brown and Klein streets.

The purpose will be to discuss township issues and to explain the township form of government to Venice residents, the mayor said.

"Most people don't know anything about the workings of the township," Echols said.

The mayor said that he intends to address what "seems like might be problems," but declined to further explain his remarks.

Venice Township includes parts of Venice and Madison, most of Eagle Park, the Benjamin Addition and the Tri-City Regional Port District, he said.

Health insurance topic of retirees

The National Association of Retired Federal Employees met in September at Charlie's Restaurant, with 49 in attendance, including a new member, Pearl Wright.

President Gene Ross called the meeting to order, 2nd Vice President Thara Erney gave the invocation and all repeated the Pledge of Allegiance.

Alex Ducini, 1st vice president, gave a legislative report concerning a catastrophic health insurance plan now being considered by the Senate, and its effects on federal retirees.

NARFE is strongly urging its members to make known the organization's concern that the legislation would have an adverse financial impact on federal retirees.

The Senate will be asked to coordinate the federal employee health benefits program with extended Medicare benefits. The pending legislation does not cover extended nursing home care, it was noted.

Service Officer Georgina McMillan discussed "open season" for changing health benefit coverage. Some plans will increase the cost of their coverage from 20 to 40 percent. Mrs. McMillan urged chapter members to give careful thought to options available to them.

"It appears that the bigger the plan, the higher the increase will be," she said. "You may want to study going to the low-option plan as opposed to the high-option plan."

The group's oldest member, William C. Breidenbach, 92, died Sept. 15 in Sierra Vista, Ariz. He had moved to Arizona in the last few months. He was retired from the Granite City post office for over 26 years and was an active NARFE member most of those years.

The meeting is being called by the Eagle Park Action Committee, said Ed Salmond, president. Also scheduled for discussion is the status of ambulance service available to Eagle Park residents, Salmond said.

"Everyone is invited to attend," he said.

A spent shell was in the gun's chamber, apparently the one fired by the boy, police said. The weapon's white pearl handle appeared to have blood on it. One side of the handle was broken off at the bottom.

Murder sentence upheld by court

The 50-year prison sentence of Barbara Gusewelle Boyle was upheld last week by the Fifth District Appellate Court in Mount Vernon.

The court upheld the murder conviction for the death of Boyle's husband, Ronald A. Gusewelle, in 1979. It rejected appeal arguments from Boyle's attorney, F. Lee Bailey.

Bailey complained of "highly improper conduct" during Boyle's trial and asked for a new trial.

All of the issues Bailey raised were rejected and the case was dismissed, according to a statement from the office of Stephen Norris, deputy director of the state's attorney's appellate prosecutor.

Norris praised Madison County Circuit Judge P.J. O'Neill for his work in the trial which Norris said "made it easy to get her conviction affirmed."

A jury in East Alton convicted Boyle, 45, of Glen Carbon, two years ago of helping to plan the murder of her husband, Ronald A. Gusewelle, to collect more than $500,000 in insurance.

The jury acquitted her of the murders of his parents, Arthur and Vernita Gusewelle.

Glenn E. Engleman, a former dentist from St. Louis, later pleaded guilty to all three slayings.

New law gets tough on ID card fraud

Legislation to allow suspension or revocation of driving privileges for those using false identification has been signed and takes effect Jan. 1. Secretary of State Jim Edgar announced the HB 1869 was proposed by Edgar as a way to curb underage drinking.

Secretary of State facilities in Illinois issue both driver licenses and official ID cards for people who do not drive. Although Edgar's office can now suspend a driver license for misuse of that document itself, it can take no action against persons who fraudulently use or obtain an official state identification card.

Now those persons who attempt to fraudulently obtain or use official state ID cards will be subject to the suspension or revocation of driving privileges by the office of the secretary of state.

In addition to the loss of driving privileges, those convicted of fraudulent use of identification could face up to 30 days in jail and fines of not more than $500. But few have received these penalties.

"Until now, we have lacked the direct authority to effectively penalize those who misuse state IDs," Edgar said. "The power to revoke or suspend drivers for misuse of an Illinois ID card should help us deter such illegal action in the future."

Other provisions of the legislation extend similar penalties to those persons who use false identification to apply for a driver's license or ID card, as well as those who allow their identification to be used by others.

Cans with detachable metal rings outlawed

Gov. James Thompson has approved, with changes, Senate Bill 218 prohibiting the retail sale of beverage containers with detachable metal ring tops.

"Detachable tops have long been a nagging source of litter and injury to people and animals," Thompson said. "Those tops are unnecessary, and can be eliminated without inconveniencing the beverage industry."

"Recognizing the detrimental effect of pop-top cans on the environment, many soft drink companies and breweries have begun to phase out the use of pop-top cans, and we can speed the demise by outlawing the sale of these cans," he said.

Thompson recommended a revision in the legislation to eliminate conflicting provisions. The change makes it clear that pop-top containers purchased before June 30, 1988 can continue to be sold.

The measure carries a fine of $500 for first-time violations of the law and fines of $2,000 for second and subsequent offenses. The bill is effective upon becoming law.

Dixon to vote 'no' on Bork

"Judge Bork has also criticized the well-accepted line of cases affirming the right of Americans to be let alone - to be free from intrusive governmental invasion of their personal liberty and privacy," Dixon said.

The White House had no comment on Dixon's announcement. But presidential spokesman Marlin Fitzwater told reporters Wednesday that the president intends to continue his fight for Bork's confirmation.

The agency also offers first aid and cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) classes. Petty said. Several local people have saved lives due to taking the CPR class, she said.

Red Cross also sponsors a yearly handicapped swimming program for handicapped children and adults, Petty said.

The American Association of the Red Cross was incorporated in the District of Columbia in 1881. It was reincorporated as the American National Red Cross in 1923.

The agency's first president was Clara Barton, who helped the wounded during the Civil War, was in Europe during the Franco-German War and was impressed with the European Red Cross agencies that had been formed. She remained president until 1904.

The Red Cross depends much on volunteer help, Petty said, and is always needing more of them.

"This chapter is very grateful for the volunteers we have," Petty said. "I like them to feel they are appreciated."

The local Red Cross agency, located at the St. Louis Area Support Center (Granite City Army Depot) if one of the agencies aided by the Tri-Cities Area United Way.

Most of the agency's funding comes from the United Way, Petty said.

"We rely heavily on the United Way," she said. "They're very important to our agency and other agencies in the area."

Part five of the series will appear in next Sunday's issue.

Dispatchers settle on salary issue about one year ago. Previously, officers had dispatched police officers to city had dispatched until the early 1980s.

Hanke said the current dispatchers were hired at 1981 salaries.

The increases were to bring the salary levels up to what dispatchers were making today, Hanke said. He said the committee compared dispatch salaries among nearby communities and that the new salary levels matched or are below other levels.

The agreement went into effect immediately after the council's passage. The agreement ends the grievance.

THE RECIPIENT of this Lawn-A-Gram gets a surprise for his 60th birthday.

Lawn-A-Gram brings smiles

By Bill Bagby

MITCHELL — Debbie Sander's seven-foot greeting cards can't be sent through the mail, but they do bring a lot of smiles. Sander, owner of the local Lawn-A-Gram dealership, rents outdoor greeting cards for all occasions.

A person wanting to send a Lawn-A-Gram comes up with a message to go on the card to suit the occasion, such as an anniversary or birthday, Sander said. The card is placed on the recipient's lawn the night before the occasion, she said, and is removed 24 hours later. A stock card for new arrivals is kept up for two days, she said.

The most unusual request for a Lawn-A-Gram was to congratulate a person who had been sober for a year, she said.

"Usually the sender gets a bigger kick than the receiver," Sander said.

There are problems sometimes with setting the cards up at night, Sander said. Once a card was placed in the wrong yard, but was moved in time for the recipient to see it, she said.

With the cards being put up at night, however, the neighbors may get to see it before the recipient, especially for a 30th or 40th birthday, Sander said.

One advantage of working at night, Sander said, is that she and her husband are able to involve their children in their work.

"There's not a lot of jobs you can take your kids on," she said. Sander also specializes in balloons and party decorations and "long-stemmed" chocolate chip cookies. Recipients get the cookies in a rose box, but soon find out they are not.

"Those are real popular for Valentine's Day and Mother's Day," Sander said.

She has been involved with Lawn-A-Gram for almost two years. Her dealership, which serves all of Madison County, is one of many nationwide.

Sander operates the business from her Mitchell home. Persons interested in sending a Lawn-A-Gram can call 876-0207.

Buy America bill vetoed

SPRINGFIELD — Gov. Jim Thompson vetoed legislation Sept. 25 intended to require the state to buy only domestic manufactured goods and commodities.

He said the legislation would "increase administrative costs, destroy the principle of competitive bidding, and sound economic procurement practices, and devalue the state's purchasing dollar."

"Buy America" is a catchy slogan, Thompson said.

"But the simplistic slogan ignores the realities of manufacturing today. We no longer live in a world where all the components of a product are produced in one place or where a glance at a product label will give an accurate picture of product content."

The governor said that "simply determining the domestic content of a particular product would require the purchasing agent to know which parts were manufactured and assembled in the United States and which parts were manufactured and assembled in other countries."

"A value would have to be assigned to each component and manufacturing process so that a reasonable assessment of the domestic content could be made, increasing purchasing costs substantially."

"Thompson said poorly-drawn definitions of "U.S. content" contained in Senate Bill 1400 would have resulted in ironically hurtful policies and procedures.

"For example, in comparing the sum total of all products produced by Chrysler to all those made by Volkswagen, the Dodge Colt would qualify for a 10 percent bid subsidy, while the Volkswagen Golf would not. Yet, the Colt is made almost entirely in Japan, while the Golf is produced in Pennsylvania. Under SB 1400, we would have given a 10 percent subsidy to the foreign-made product at the expense of a union-labor product made in the USA."

"In this state," Thompson said, "we have been highly successful in encouraging foreign investment in Illinois business and industry."

"Products made by Illinois workers in plants located in this state, but which are owned by Asian or European firms, might not qualify as 'domestic products' while a company in another state could receive preferential treatment under this bill."

Thompson said in his veto message that the legislation also "attempts to solve a problem that does not exist" since the state does not purchase an inordinate amount of foreign goods.

SB 1400 would have required the state to purchase manufactured commodities and equipment consisting of at least 50 percent United States and/or Canadian content during 1986, 60 percent content during 1989, and 70 percent in 1990 through 1992, if obtaining the goods in America or Canada would not have increased contract costs by more than 10 percent.

Thompson also vetoed Senate bill 117, which would have created the Water Pollution Control Revolving Fund (WPCRF) to provide loans to local governments for construction of wastewater treatment facilities in order to achieve compliance with state and federal environmental protection standards.

Under SB 117, Illinois would have issued $70 million in general obligation bonds to match federal funds available under the Clean Water Act of 1987.

"This bill is the General Assembly's response to my own proposal to provide the same funding for a revolving loan fund through an expansion of Build Illinois," Thompson said in his veto message.

"While I concur with many of the substantive portions of this bill, I must veto it because the Assembly has failed to provide an adequate financial plan to support this program."

In his 1987 budget, Thompson proposed a sales tax on computer software and non-prescription drugs to support the sale of Build Illinois bonds to capitalize on the revolving loan fund.

"While I support a program that will maximize the amount of federal money available to assist communities in meeting water standards, I cannot approve this program until a funding source is identified," he said.

Stars apologize for bumping Warriors out of tournament

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

GRANITE CITY — Ray Stahl was a rude guest and he knew it. Stahl almost bent over backwards apologizing for what happened at the Gauntlet on Friday. His McCluer North Stars ruined the party by defeating the Warriors 1-0 in the final game of the round-robin portion of the Tournament of Champions. That sent the Stars into Saturday's semifinals against CBC and left the Warriors idle until next Saturday.

"We didn't deserve to win the game," Stahl said. "We certainly didn't expect to come here and beat Granite City. A good guest knows when to leave, but it looks like we'll be hanging around longer than we should."

Stahl might be playing it a little coy since his team is now 12-3. And these two teams will have a rematch a week from Monday. But the Stars got a goal from Randy Stearns 64:32 to claim the win and the Group D championship. They joined CBC, Vianney and Aquinas Mercy in the final four.

"We came out of what we were doing a little early and that was my fault," said Warrior coach Gene Baker, whose team fell to 1-3 with their first loss at home this year. "We had a little mixup and they scored."

The ball came back to the top of the Warrior penalty area and Jeff Groe could clear it out as Stegman picked it up. He moved in and blasted it by Matt Krovick with 15:28 left.

After that the Warriors pushed up knowing they needed two goals. A tie would have done them no good as far as advancing in the tournament.

"We played very well," Baker said. "I'm proud of the kids. Kirk Mills had his best game. Scott Stone was a threat all night."

Crusaders blitz Warriors

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

GRANITE CITY — Ron Yates was in no mood for any light-hearted shenanigans.

He turned down the offer of post-game handshakes saying, "I don't really feel like shaking anyone's hand after something like this."

"This" was yet another lopsided shutout defeat. The Warriors remembered their embarrassing 4-0 defeat at Belleville Althoff last year. Their only consolation this year might be that they fared only six points worse than their predecessors, who happened to be Southwestern Conference champions.

The Crusaders left Memorial Stadium with a 47-0 win and a 5-1 record. It was Althoff's fifth shutout of the year and strengthened its position as one of the better Class 4A teams in the state. For the Warriors, who fell to 2-4, it was another long, long night.

"We're just not a very good football team," said Yates. "Our junior and senior classes just aren't real strong and it is showing."

Since starting the season bravely with two good efforts and a 1-1 record, Granite City has suffered defeats by scores of 28-0, 42-0 and 47-0. Only an overtime win over Collinsville came in the interim. And things don't figure to get much better for at least another week.

"It's probably going to be another long night next Saturday," Yates said, looking ahead to a game at Springfield Griffin.

The Cyclones are the top-rated Class 4A team in Illinois and experts say they would be highly rated even in Class 5A.

Friday's game was never real.

(See FOOTBALL, Page 2B)

Lane, Wilkinson go to sectional

Although Russ Chappell got a little surprise at Thursday's Class AA golf regional at Wood River, he doesn't have many complaints with the results.

Derek Trtanj was the Warriors' leading golfer for much of the regular season. But Trtanj did not qualify as an individual for Tuesday's sectional. He will, however, be there as the Warriors took third place at the regional to qualify as a team. In addition, Mike Wilkinson and Chad Lane advanced as individuals meaning Granite City will have six players represented at Sunset Hills on Tuesday.

"Most of the guys shot right near their averages, so I was pretty happy with everything," Chappell said. "The only disappointing thing was that Derek didn't get to qualify as an individual because Sunset Hills is his home course."

Advances on goal differential

night. Mike Lane and John Van Buskirk were very good."

Dan Wilson, Vince Darnell, Van Buskirk and Stone all had chances after the goal, but the Warriors came up empty.

"All the credit goes to the players," Stahl said. "I'm very happy for them but I don't know if we deserve it. I feel for Granite City. They played hard the whole game and had the best chances. I know we wanted to do well in their own tournament."

Advances on goal differential

Saturday's games postponed by rain

The final day of the Tournament of Champions was postponed because of the rain on Saturday.

CBC (11-2) was to play McCluer North (12-3) in one semifinal game with Aquinas Mercy and Vianney (both 11-1) to play in the other semifinal. At press time Saturday morning, Granite City High School athletic director Greg Patton said he was not yet sure when the games would be played.

Anytime you play them you need a maximum effort. The key for the Stars was getting through the first quarter, according to Stahl.

"The last two times we played them here in the tournament, they scored early on us," he said. "So we stacked it up across the back and held them out. We had come up a goal short against them before, so it was nice to get this one."

"We had several chances to score throughout the game but we couldn't pull the trigger," Baker said.

The Warriors won't play again until Saturday at Belleville West. They play at McCluer North on Oct. 19 and close the regular season at St. Louis U. High on Oct. 22.

"If you're going to play the Cadets, it might as well be at 9 a.m.," he said. "Why don't we make it 7 a.m.? We have to play them twice and that's not a good thought. It's like having to play Granite City twice."

Shutout

MADISON DEFENDERS including Devlin Rockett (22) and Steve Sanders (54) chase down Dave Steinhorn of Red Bud at Sam Dymas Memorial Field on Friday. The Trojans shut out the highly-rated Musketeers to go 5-1 on the year. More on the game will be in the Wednesday Journal.

Golf regional Trtanj shot an 82 and the Warriors' leading golfer was 81. Lane, a sophomore, shot a 78 to take fourth place and Wilkinson, a junior, shot an 80 to tie for sixth. The top four teams plus the top 12 individuals advanced.

"It was a tough day because they teed off in opposite order and the wind was really howling when the top players were out there," Chappell said.

Belleville West won the regional with a 317 and the Maroons' Boomer Leopold took medal honors with a 74. West also advanced Chris Sanders (79) and Greg Lavere (81).

Edwardsville was second with a 322 and advanced Kris Anderson (79), Jay Hepler (80) and Sam Scheibal (81). In addition to Wilkinson and Lane, the Warriors will put Trtanj, Mike McCormick (83), Mike Edwards (83) and Scott Moss (84) on the team at Sunset Hills.

Alton was the fourth and final team to qualify with a 330. Other individual qualifiers were Jeff Witt, Mascoutah, 78; Chad Randall, Alton, 77; Randy Rachell, Belleville Althoff, 79; Quentin Roscoe, Belleville East, 80; Jon Stauder, Civic Memorial, 81; and Don Meade, O'Fallon, 81.

At the sectional, the top three teams plus the top 12 individuals will advance to the state tournament this weekend at Lick Creek in Pekin.

"Quincy is probably the toughest team coming in," Chappell said. "They shot a 317 at Jacksonville. We will have to beat them, West or Edwardsville to advance."

Graham to host show on WRYT

Larry Graham will be the host of a one-hour weekly sports show to be aired on WRYT (1000) of Edwardsville.

WRYT is a new station that will serve listeners in Madison County beginning in mid-October. The announcement was made by Kent Scheffel, general manager of the station.

"I've been doubling in radio for years, but this is my first chance to host my own show on a regular basis," Graham said. "I'm excited about it."

The show will air Saturdays at 10 a.m. and will feature interviews with area high school and college coaches.

"We'll go with whatever is of greatest interest to area sports fans in any given week," Graham said. "We'll talk about major events of all types, from basketball to bowling."

"Coach Graham is a legend in southern Illinois sports," said Scheffel. "His years of involvement in metro east sports make him the ideal person to put WRYT at the forefront of the sports scene in the communities we'll be serving."

Graham has compiled a 53-33 record at SIUE, taking the Cougars to two consecutive berths in the NCAA Division II post-season tournament. He coached at Madison High School for 15 years and won the state Class A championship in 1977 and 1981.

Graham will be assisted by Granite City native John Berkeley. Berkeley is a native of the southern Illinois sports scene whose play-by-play credits include four Illinois high school basketball tournaments.

Stars blanked

TOM BUFO of the Stars controls the ball. GOC was blanked 2-0 at Lewis & Clark on Friday. Kirk Moser and Granite City native Dennis Gaudreault had goals for the Bucks. The Stars fell to 6-5-2 overall and 2-3-1 in the Midwest Community College Athletic Conference.

Undeclared Maroons hang on to defeat Warriors 15-8, 15-12

By Gary King
Correspondent

GRANITE CITY — There are worse things a person can do than make a mistake against the Belleville West Maroon volleyball team.

Like allowing Marvin Hagler a free punch, spotting Michael Jordan a five-point lead or wind-surfing in the Persian Gulf.

Understand, first of all, that the Maroons are comprised of six female Clint Eastwoods. They wait for opponents to reach inside their coat, and then they pull out the Smith & Wessons. They grit their teeth, "Go ahead punk, make my day."

And like Dirty Harry, the Maroons have yet to be out-drawn this season. Belleville West entered Thursday's Southwestern Conference clash with Granite City sporting a 15-0 mark. They left with a 16-0 mark and another notch on their holster.

15-8, 15-12. Despite the outcome, Warrior coach Don Deterding was nowhere near red-faced when the dust settled.

"Belleville West is good," he said. "It's by no means an embarrassment to lose to them like we did tonight. They're the class of the area, but I think we proved tonight that we can play with them."

The Warriors hung with the Maroons for the first half of both games. In game one, the Warriors fell 15-8 on a late scoring binge by the crimson-and-cream clad West squad.

In game two, West quickly converted a slight 7-6 edge to 12-6 before the Warriors scrapped together a final score. A Tammy Levaull serve, a Wendy Knollman spike, a Knollman serve, three points by Lisa Mills and another Knollman spike. 13-12, Belleville West.

Within a matter of minutes, the Warriors had risen from the ranks of the dead and Maroon coach Charles Rodman was reaching for his Roloids bottle.

But the threat failed to materialize as the Maroon's Nancy Mason made quick riddance of Granite City on three picture-perfect serves.

"We knew what to expect coming in," Rodman said. "They are our main competition in the conference right now."

Granite City is good. They hustle and they're scrappy."

"They pass so well that they can afford to play a very, very quick offense," Deterding said. "They just bring three or four hitters at you and one of them is just as good as the other."

With the loss, Granite City fell to 11-4 overall and 5-3 in SWC play. West kept its unblemished mark intact at 16-0 overall and 8-0 in SWC play.

And while Deterding wasn't about to predict a future upset, he was quick to point out his squad's progress.

"These girls just won't die," he said. "You can get them down, but they won't quit. They just keep coming. I've coached for 30 years and these girls are as intense a team as I've ever coached."

"West is still above us, but we're catching up."

ly in doubt. The Warriors got one first down on their first possession but Terry Stanley was stopped a foot short on fourth and 1 at the Granite City 46. The Crusaders consumed 11 plays behind the running of Terry Chavis (61 yards on 10 carries) and Tim Gula (30 yards on seven carries) to score. Gula went in from eight yards out with 3:13 left in the quarter.

Joe Wallace threw the first of his four interceptions to Corey Cox near midfield and the Crusaders went 46 yards in three plays. Steve Schott completed a 24-yard pass to B.C. Perry and Chavis skirted left end for a 16-yard score with 1:30 left in the quarter.

Schott, who completed 3 of 6 passes for 75 yards and two touchdowns, went up top for 38 yards to Chris Evans with 8:48 left in the second quarter to make it 21-0.

"We didn't go to the ball when it was in the air," Yates said. "Althoff was very good. They sensed the win and had killer instinct."

Wallace completed three passes on the next drive but the drive stalled. The Crusaders went 84 yards on 10 plays with Brent Knox gaining 22 on one play. Then Evans found Evans in the right corner of the end zone from 13 yards out with 51 seconds left in the half. The conversion failed and it was 27-0.

A nice return by David Hunt set the Warriors up at midfield, but Wallace was intercepted by Cox at the 5 as the half ran out.

The Crusaders went 73 yards in five plays to start the third quarter as Antion Matthews had a 54-yard run. Gula went the final seven yards with 9:02 left to make it 34-0.

The Warriors had their best play when Wallace scrambled and found Brian Dix for 31 yards down the right sideline to midfield. A personal foul on Althoff, another completion to Jim Stout and an eight-yard punt by Randy Odell put the Warriors on the Crusader 28, but Tom Egan intercepted the next pass and went yards down the sideline to make it 41-0 with 1:52 left in the third quarter.

"Joe played a good game," Yates said. "I know he threw those interceptions, but he hit some nice passes and was finding his receivers better. We didn't want him to throw those out patterns. We hit some over the middle and would have liked to stay with that."

Wallace threw one more interception to Tom Hasenstab but saved a touchdown with a tackle. Six plays later, Hasenstab took it in from four yards out with 8:52 left to make it 47-0 as Stout blocked the extra point.

"They were quick and when a team is quick against us, it's trouble," Yates said. "I felt we quit at times in the second half. We will be bringing in lots of sophomores to look at the next few weeks. What have we got to lose?"

NOTES: The Crusaders had 300 yards rushing and 76 passing. Kevin Sutphin led the Warriors with 45 yards rushing as the team totalled 106 on the ground. Wallace was 6 of 16 for 63 yards as Dix caught three for 40 yards. Althoff had 12 first downs to eight for Granite City.

'Fatal Attraction' turns temptation into terror

FATAL ATTRACTION — Michael Douglas is a happily married New York City attorney who impulsively goes off on a one-night fling with publisher's executive Glenn Close and becomes involved in a series of nightmarish events leading to a pathological obsession.

Rated R. (Violence, sexual situations).

Harry Hamm
If you have ever pondered the possibilities of an extra-marital affair, run don't walk to the film "Fatal Attraction." It's enough to make you seriously consider taking up gardening instead.

Michael Douglas as the rising young attorney who decides to dawdle with Glenn Close one weekend while his wife, played by Anne Archer, waits for him in the country with the kid, is so representative of most young executives his age that the events that follow take on a startling realism. This guy could be your neighbor.

Close does not come off as any kind of half-baked, crazy lady. She is, instead, a woman possessed both by the affair she has just encountered and her own feelings of loneliness and the frustration of not being able to share her existence with someone. Her manipulative rage slowly smolders until it reaches almost volcanic temperatures. She simmers until she explodes. It is a transformation that is frightening to observe. But he surprised if it earned him a nomination for an Oscar this coming February for her work in "Fatal Attraction." She is terrific.

"Fatal Attraction" is one of those films that will have everybody talking. No matter how much they did or did not like it. Word of mouth on this film should keep it near the top of the box office grosses for quite a while. It has a script that challenges the viewer to rearrange it at every turn. It offers scenarios and situations where there isn't one simple answer.

The film's eventual, death-declaring moments at its climax are predictable yet effective. "Fatal Attraction" is the kind of film Alfred Hitchcock might have liked to direct. There is even a scene in a shower.

So the next time you're tempted to ask the cute new secretary in the office out to lunch, or to accept a casual invitation to have a drink with the boss after work, remember "Fatal Attraction."

It will keep you honest, as well as entertained.

Frank Hunter
The wages of sin prove to be a heck of a lot of trouble for everybody as things turn out in "Fatal Attraction," director Adrian Lyne's expertly made shocker.

Apart from a couple of scenes that don't make a lot of sense, it's a rousing, adroitly filmed suspense in which a married New York lawyer on his way to a brilliant career is tripped up by his own passions. The price of a weekend fling is perilously high, and anyone concerned about the potential dangers of promiscuity will find director Lyne's voluptuous, entry-based on James Dearden's script, a challenging two hours of chills and unbridled revenge.

Put simply, put the very brave or extraordinarily stupid

MICHAEL DOUGLAS, who plays a New York City attorney, tries to comfort a publishing executive, played by Glenn Close, who forms a pathological obsession with Douglas.

have any business sleeping around.

Michael Douglas is barrister Dan Gallagher, perfectly content with his job, a pretty wife (Anne Archer), and their daughter (Ellen Hamilton Latzen).

But when mother and child leave daddy in the city and drive to the country looking for a new house, Gallagher dines on yams and claims with Manhattan editor Alex Forrest (Glenn Close), one of his firm's clients.

Radiant with wine and lusty thoughts, they end up in Forrest's trendy loft apartment where she puts a tape of Madame Butterfly on the stereo and the two play getting to know you in as many sensual ways as the producer can get away with, short of earning "Fatal Attraction" a big fat "X" rating.

Gallagher is far from a playboy, but he is a man who can overlook a brief weekend encounter because he is very much the married man.

But Alex Forrest is a different breed altogether, a woman who remembers them all, and probably a few she has never had.

The film is unsettling, provocative, potentially acted by all hands and guaranteed to set a viewer's teeth on edge. Gallagher's placid, generally wholesome life is turned into a terrifying nightmare culminating in one of those wild, shrieking denouements that jangles the nerves.

HELLRAISER—Horror film by English-writer Clive Barker in which apprehension turns to terror as a married couple returns to the husband's ancestral home only to find it haunted by the spectre of his dead brother who unleashes several hellish demons.

Rated R. (Violence).

Harry Hamm
To paraphrase an old movie quip, the new film "Hellraiser" was not released in theaters. It was released in a local advertising firm that handles many movie companies' public relations and press chores to see if I wanted to be one of the lucky critics who would receive, in the mail, a large package revealing all I ever wanted to know about Clive Barker, a British writer that the publicist claimed (in every other sentence) was just like our own Stephen King.

The package came and I was not impressed. The movie has opened and now I'm even less impressed with Barker.

St. Louisans apparently aren't impressed either. At the theater I attended to see "Hellraiser" (the picture was not screened in advance for the press, a wise move indeed) there were a total of eight people, counting me, in attendance.

"Hellraiser" tramples over some familiar turf with its "house from hell" theme and its villainous characters, the Cenobites. Early in "Hellraiser," it becomes evident that Barker's immersion into this project as both writer and director has given him a chance to fail twice in one film.

The acting in "Hellraiser" can only be described as atrocious. The special effects are good if you care about the ability to recreate severed body parts. Barker has added strong sexual overtones to his film, because the Cenobites promise untold pleasure as well as equally untold pain. But for the audience, there is only pain.

One comic aspect of "Hellraiser" is the scoring. At times, you get the impression that composer Christopher Young mistook this project for a low budget remake of "Doctor Zhivago."

No doubt Barker has had some degree of success with his books on horror topics. But describing something on a page and bringing it alive on the screen are two different matters. In other words, I recommend Barker stay firmly entrenched behind his typewriter in the future.

Frank Hunter
Among writers authors superbly equipped to deal with the subjects of passion and perversity is

England's Clive Barker, the hottest man around when it comes to tales of horror and the supernatural that chill the blood.

Two of his previous yarns were mauled in the film version, and Barker was so disappointed at the abuse that he wrote the script for "Hellraiser" and also served as director.

On the whole, the "King of the Gore Writers" has done a good job with his first feature film, drawing respectable performances from the cast and introducing some very outlandish creatures called Cenobites that crave the body and souls of those who enter their realm.

There is also a tormented spectre straight from hell with a head resembling a barbecued ham and a torso that can only be fully restored by gorging on the blood of others.

Years earlier the undead wrath Frank (Sean Chapman) ordered a sort of Pandora's puzzle box promising to yield all manner of unseizable pleasures but instead he found himself dragged into hell by the demonic Cenobites.

And when Larry and Julia, his brother and sister-in-law played by Andrew Robinson and Clare Higgins, move back into the moldering family manse, Julia finds that Frank (with whom she once had an affair), is literally a shadow of himself. Now he is holed up in the attic and working up an awful thirst for flesh and blood.

Julia succumbs to her ex-lover's festering image all over again and in a sickening arrangement a few good meals for him.

The principals in "Hellraiser" are up to their hips in slaughter, and the special effects run to scenes of steaming, skinned corpses with contorted faces that ooze a lot.

Barker's Cenobites are a vengeful breed, and you can look for a wild conclusion to all the carnage and stunning little kicker at the end suggesting that a sequel is surely in the works.

'Hoosiers' beats odds

By Nick and Eileen Pacino

Hoosiers is a small town, Indiana, a small farming town that pins all its hopes on the local basketball team. Hackman plays a former college coach who had been suspended many years before and is hired by his old buddy, the school principal, to whip the sickly team into shape.

Dennis Hopper plays Shooter, an ex-basketball star now turned resident drunk, who has a son on the team. Barbara Hershey is Myra Flecner, an English teacher who finds herself falling for the new coach even though she despises the hero worship involved in the sport and who steals the team's star to attend college on an academic scholarship rather than an athletic one.

Hackman's battle seems all uphill in view of the odds, but when the going gets tough, the well you know. The underdog ballplayers are all real basketball bouncers, not actors, and this works up to a point. The plot is based on an actual state championship game in 1954 in Milan, Ind. HBO Video, rated PG for language, color, 115 mins., VHS/Beta, closed captioned.

"Claymation is a fascinating but grueling technique in which clay-sculpted figures are changed 24 times for each second of finished film. It gives a more "life-like" look to commercials than the first animation. Will Vinton, the acknowledged master of the technique ("The Adventures of Mark Twain" 1986), has won the Academy Award for Best Short Subjects.

"Best of the Festival of Claymation" is a compilation of some of Vinton's most popular and also rarely seen films like "Vanessa's Knot Dance," a John Fogerty music video; "The Great Cognito"; "Mountain Music"; "Dinosaur Legacy" and a portfolio of commercials for Domino's Pizza, Nike and the famous California Raisins. The pieces are introduced by two clay characters, Rex and Herb, two dinosaurs who sit in a tiny movie balcony sounding a lot like two famous movie critics. Pacific Arts Video, color, 60 mins., VHS/Beta.

The film stars Albert Finney as the humbly born Karl Wittila and covers a span of four decades in the pontiff's life as student, actor and athlete through the years of fighting the Nazis in World War II and his election as pope in 1978.

This spirited blend of drama and history was filmed in Rome, Austria and the Vatican, and also stars Nigel Hawthorne and John McEnery. Prism Video, rated G, color, 147 mins., VHS/Beta.

"The Vietnam War finally has been receiving the long-overdue dramatic treatment from Hollywood. But that treatment has overshadowed such "undeclared" conflicts as obtained from military and government much-needed attention now with the recent release of "Korea: The Forgotten War."

Narrated by actor Robert Stack, this documentary utilizes combat footage, covers President Harry Truman's firing of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, trudges through the slow peace negotiation process and ends with the cessation of hostilities in July 1953.

A portion of the earnings from cassette sales will go toward the erection of a Los Angeles Korean War Memorial monument in 1988 by The Chosin Few, a national organization of Korean War vets. Fox Hills Video, not rated, color, black and white, 92 mins., VHS/Beta, Hi-Fi.
